Changing of batteries for Argos/Nautilus 2

In the event of a power failure, the function of our control system is ensured by the batteries located on the panel board. We always ensure that the batteries are fully charged when sent from us, whether it is a spare parts circuit or an upgrade kit.

If you have spare parts circuit in stock, it is of great importance that the batteries are checked before they are used by the customer to minimize the risk that they do not fulfill their function. We have noted from the field that it has happened that a new spare parts circuit did not have recharged batteries, which has led to the customer not being able to receive an alarm.

We further recommend that batteries be replaced at least every 3 years. Always replace with rechargeable batteries. We recommend that you use our original batteries that we know work and are of high quality. These are available for purchase at our webshop in a four-pack, see link below.
